Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-7, 9-10, 12-18, and 20-24 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 1 and their dependents thereof, are allowed because the closes prior art, Clark et al. (US Patent Publication No. 2005/0086062) and Vasudevan et al. (US Patent Publication No. 2002/:0131496), either alone or in combination, fails to anticipate or render obvious a method for determining a charging rate related to a data bit transfer session for a mobile client communicating with a radio resource managing unit comprising the steps of:

dynamically determining a bandwidth on the wireless communication link available to and allowed to be used by the bit transfer session for said mobile client;

a charging logic receiving information from the radio resource managing unit about the bandwidth on the wireless communication link that the bit transfer session is available to use; and said charging logic applying a particular charging rate for said mobile client based on said received bandwidth information for said data bit transfer session wherein the charging logic adapting the charging rate related to the bit transfer session such that the session is charged according to a first charging rate associated with a first charging class when the bandwidth on the wireless link available to the bit transfer session is within a first predetermined interval and according to a second charging rate associated with a second charging class when the bandwidth on the wireless link available to the bit transfer session is within a second predetermined interval.

Specifically, Clark and Vasudevan, either alone or in combination, fails to anticipate or render obvious dynamically determining a bandwidth on the wireless communication link available to and allowed to be used by the bit transfer session for mobile client and a charging logic applying a particular charging rate for mobile client based on received bandwidth information for said data bit transfer session wherein bandwidth information has been dynamically determined on the bit transfer session.

Claims 12 and their dependents thereof, are allowed because the closes prior art, Clark and Vasudevan, either alone or in combination, fails to anticipate or render obvious A telecommunications charging system associated with a mobile client communicating with a radio resource managing unit over a wireless communication link within a telecommunication network system, comprising:

means for dynamically determining a bandwidth available for and allowed to be used by a particular data bit transfer session established between said mobile client and said radio resource managing unit over said wireless communication link;

reception means for receiving information from the radio resource managing unit about the bandwidth on the wireless link available for the bit transfer session; and charging server for applying a particular charging rate for said mobile client based on said received bandwidth information for the bit transfer session wherein the charging server is arranged to adapt the charging rate related to the bit transfer session such that the session is charged according to a first charging rate associated with a first charging class when the bandwidth on the wireless link available to the bit transfer session is within a first predetermined interval and according to a second charging rate associated with a second charging class when the bandwidth on the wireless link available to the bit transfer session is within a second predetermined interval.

Specifically, Clark and Vasudevan, either alone or in combination, fails to anticipate or render obvious means for dynamically determining a bandwidth on the wireless communication link available to and allowed to be used by the bit transfer session for mobile client and a charging logic applying a particular charging rate for mobile client based on received bandwidth information for said data bit transfer session wherein bandwidth information has been dynamically determined on the bit transfer session.

4. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
